

Gonzalo Muñoz: "It Is Impossible to Deny That Most of the Inspiration My Three Siblings and I Received Came from Our Parents"

Claire Fallender 18 July 2017

In today's rapidly changing world, a young person's ability to lead, be part of a team, practice changemaking and express empathy are increasingly important skills. Ashoka turned to Ashoka Fellows Gonzalo Muñoz and Ximena Abogabir to understand what it takes to raise children who can contribute to positive change. They are two leading social entrepreneurs from Chile who have individually changed the face of large-scale recycling and environmental education in Chile respectively. However, they share something even more powerful: Gonzalo is Ximena's son.
