

A Common Passion for Changemaking Unites Two Brazilian Teens From Different Backgrounds

Claire Fallender 18 July 2017

Leonardo Silva Brito, from the remote state of Rondonia in the Amazonian region of Brazil, grew-up with a deep love of reading. His parents, both teachers, had made bedtime storytime so enticing that by the age of six, he was reading to his mom. He read all the books he could get his hands on. And while his parents fostered his enthusiasm at home, his teachers did the same at the public school he attended.

Continue reading at Ashoka...